TEACHINGS FROM THE MINISTER

Obon Service or Obon Dance?

Reverend Shinkai Murakami

Namo Amida Butsu

The 2025 Obon season began on Maui in June, and many residents—as well as visitors from across the U.S. and abroad—came together to enjoy our island's vibrant cultural events. Obon has become one of Hawai'i's most cherished traditions. Regardless of religious background, people gather at temples to enjoy delicious food and participate in the joyful Bon Dance.

At Wailuku Hongwanji and many other Buddhist temples, Hatsu-bon and Obon services are held prior to the Bon Dance. Hatsu-bon is a special memorial service that honors loved ones who have passed away since the previous year's Obon season. These services offer families and friends a chance to reflect on their loss, express gratitude, and find comfort through the teachings of the Buddha.

However, I've often heard a common misunderstanding—even among Buddhist church members—that Obon and Hatsu-bon services are only meant for families who have experienced a recent loss. As a result, some people may choose not to attend the service if they haven't lost someone recently, instead waiting outside to enjoy the food booths or dancing. While it is natural to be drawn to the festive atmosphere, it is important to understand that the heart of Obon lies in its spiritual meaning.

Food and fellowship are certainly meaningful parts of the Obon celebration. They provide nourishment for our bodies and support for our temple through fundraising efforts. But Obon, at its core, is a religious observance—a time to reflect, express gratitude, and honor those who have passed on, regardless of when they departed this life.

I'd like to share a deeper history of the Bon Dance that is often less well-known but especially meaningful for Nembutsu followers. Most are familiar with the story of Moggallana, whose act of filial devotion to his mother is said to be the origin of Obon. However, during Japan's Heian period (around 1180), a practice called Odori Nembutsu—dancing while chanting the Nembutsu—became closely tied to Obon rituals.

These early rituals were understood as a way to welcome the spirits of the departed and offer them special memorial services. In the Kamakura period (1185–1333), Ippen Shōnin (1239–1289), founder of the Ji sect, inherited Odori Nembutsu from his teacher, Kūya. Ippen

2025 Temple Coin Now Available -
Theme: Interdependence

Danny Topp

The 2025 temple coin, featuring this year's theme of Interdependence, is now available! Only 100 coins were minted, and just 30 remain—so act quickly if you'd like to reserve one. Coins from previous years (2022–2024) are also available. Each coin is priced at $10. To purchase, please contact Danny Topp directly.

taught that when we recite the Nembutsu, a sense of profound awareness and joy naturally arises in our hearts. Expressing this joy through movement and dance gave rise to what we now recognize as the Bon Dance.

Communities across Japan embraced Ippen Shōnin's teachings. Dancing became a joyful and embodied way to express gratitude for Amida Buddha's compassion and the gift of the Nembutsu. As time passed, these practices evolved. People began to wear colorful garments, incorporate musical instruments, and develop regional styles of Bon Dance, turning it into both a spiritual and communal event.

By the Muromachi period (1336–1568), drums and other instruments made the music livelier and more accessible to all. Dances were often held on July 15, when the full moon lit up the evening sky, and torches provided a warm glow to the gathering. In the Edo period, as communities became more stable and prosperous, Bon Dance celebrations flourished across Japan—sometimes continuing well into the fall season.

Today, it is common to build a yagura (a raised platform) in the center of the dance circle, where singers and musicians perform. These ondo-tori lead the dancers with their voices, a tradition that predates microphones and sound systems. The yagura itself is believed to have originated from early Odori Nembutsu practices, reminding us that the roots of our celebration are spiritual and profound.

Bon Dance has always been more than entertainment—it served as a way to strengthen community bonds and foster a sense of unity and pride. Even neighboring villages developed their own unique songs and movements, which is why we still enjoy a variety of Bon Dance music today. Songs such as Fukushima Ondo, Iwakuni Ondo, Tankō Bushi from Fukuoka, and Kawachi Ondo from Osaka reflect the rich diversity of the tradition.

For us as Jōdo Shinshū Hongwanji followers, the true significance of Obon lies in encountering the Nembutsu—Amida Buddha's call to us, filled with infinite wisdom and compassion. We believe that those who have passed on return to us as Buddhas (gensō eko), gently guiding us toward the truth of life. For this reason, we refer to the Obon service as Kangi-e, or the "Joyful Gathering."

As we enter this meaningful season, may we participate in the Obon services with open hearts. Whether or not we've experienced a recent loss, this is a time for all of us to remember and honor our loved ones, reflect on the impermanence of life, and walk the spiritual path together. In doing so, we come to appreciate the deeper meaning of the Bon Dance and the profound joy of being part of this timeless tradition.

Maui Hongwanji Choir Debuts at Fujimatsuri Celebration

Joan Tamori

The newly formed Maui Hongwanji Choir made its heartfelt debut at the recent Fujimatsuri (Wisteria Festival), commemorating the birth of founder Shinran Shonin. Marking a meaningful milestone in the joint spiritual efforts of the island's Hongwanji temples, the choir opened the service with moving presentations of two gathas: Amida's Guide to Life and To All We Owe.

The MHC sings
Amida's Guide to Life!

Directed by Joan Tamori, the choir features dedicated members from Kahului, Lahaina, and Wailuku Hongwanji who practiced diligently for months in preparation for their first performance.

The choir is open to all interested members from any temple who wish to explore and share the Dharma through the joy of music. New voices are always welcome!

EDUCATION

DS Students Achieve Big in 2024-2025!Joan Tamori

Wailuku Hongwanji Mission's 21 Dharma School students had a wonderful year filled with exciting and innovative activities, as well as meaningful class and group lessons on Jodo Shinshu teachings. Most inspiring was their dedication to service throughout the year. These remarkable students volunteered as kansho bell ringers, emcees, greeters, offertory collectors, and aspiration readers during temple services—demonstrating both enthusiasm and a strong sense of community.

Supporting them every step of the way were their devoted parents and grandparents, who generously gave their time and encouragement. The Dharma School staff—Laurie Fukushima-Tsai, Sandy Hirata, Julie Petro,

Shelley Quipotla, Sammy Takamura, and Joan Tamori—extend heartfelt thanks to all parents, church members, and the Buddhist Women's Association (BWA) for their continued support.

On May 25, the students were recognized for their achievements with certificates and gifts, and parents received a token of appreciation in gratitude for their involvement and encouragement throughout the year.

In late April, the Aloha Girls had a fun end of 4-H year celebration. They were able to go to the Maui Butterfly Farm thanks to a grant from the 4-H Leaders Foundation. The girls not only got to see and hold beautiful butterflies but they also learned how important these delicate insects are to our ecosystem. The girls had a blast as Monarchs and Swallowtails flitted around and on them. Thank you Aloha Girls for a great year! Thank you leaders, parents, and the Wailuku Hongwanji Mission for all the support!

Congratulations to all students for completing another year of school! As we go into summer our clubs are preparing for their new 4-H year, voting on officers and their project year for 2025-2026.

Buddha Reads: Mystic River*Danny Topp*

The Buddha Reads book club met recently to discuss Mystic River by Dennis Lehane—a gripping, character-driven crime novel set in the working-class neighborhoods of Boston. Our discussion explored the novel’s richly drawn characters, layered plot, and haunting atmosphere.

Bob highlighted the intricate relationships between the characters and Lehane’s evocative depiction of Boston’s neighborhoods. He noted that the epilogue invites speculation, especially about Sean’s future. Laurie questioned whether the epilogue was necessary at all, comparing it to ambiguous endings in other novels. She suggested it might even be a dream sequence and reflected on how the story felt shaped by fate, as if the characters were unable to escape their destinies. Gary agreed the epilogue was unusual but wasn’t bothered by it, and added that he found the book slow at first, but much more engaging in the final section.

Danny focused on the themes of karma and the moral ambiguity of justice in the novel. He expressed some reservations about the story’s sense of determinism and raised questions about the legality of certain police actions. Gary, drawing on his background, provided a legal perspective on one of the more controversial plot points.

The group agreed the book was well-written and filled with memorable characters, but not necessarily something they’d recommend to everyone. As Gary put it, this one is best suited for fans of “hard-boiled murder mysteries.” Joan and Danny appreciated the novel but didn’t connect with it as deeply as others did. Joan offered a great summary of her experience: she thought it was “just a little better than okay.”

Looking ahead, our next book will be The Tattooist of Auschwitz by Heather Morris. We’ll meet via Zoom on Saturday, July 13 to discuss it. Danny will also be finalizing the list of candidate books for our next round of voting. If you have any titles you’d like the group to consider, please send your suggestions his way!

"Hatsubon" means "first Obon", the first memorial since a loved one's passing after the previous Obon. It offers family and friends a moment to reflect on how their loved one's presence continues to touch their lives through memories, words, and actions. For those observing Hatsubon — and for all of us who have experienced loss — this is a time to recognize life's impermanence and the lasting influence of those who came before us. Obon dance begins at 7:45 p.m.

ANNOUNCEMENTLahaina Hongwanji Rebuilding UpdateMichael MunekiyoStatus Update

The Honpa Hongwanji Mission of Hawaii's (HHMH) Lahaina Hongwanji Recovery and Rebuilding Committee continues work to facilitate the rebuilding of the Lahaina Hongwanji campus. While there are multiple hurdles to address the need to reestablish the Nembutsu teachings in West Maui, the Committee is making steady, consensus-based progress towards this goal. The following are noteworthy milestones.

1. Visioning and planning strategic sessions have been held with the Lahaina Hongwanji Sangha to receive input regarding their priorities for the future of the Temple.
2. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers completed clean-up of the Lahaina Hongwanji property.
3. HHMH, through the Office of the Bishop, coordinates with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and Hawaii Emergency Management Agency (HiEMA) to obtain needed clarification regarding funding qualifications and criteria for Federal reimbursements. This process included site visits with FEMA, HiEMA, HHMH and Lahaina Hongwanji Sangha representatives.
4. FEMA recently completed its funding obligation process to provide HiEMA the Federal funding for the planning, design and construction processes.
5. HHMH retained the professional services of FAI Architects to conduct an initial feasibility and masterplan for the Lahaina Hongwanji campus.

The foregoing are but a few of the many steps required to advance the rebuilding process. While much more work is needed, the current effort of FAI Architects to prepare the rebuilding feasibility study is a focus of the Committee.

Need for Lahaina Hongwanji Campus Photographs

A key research item for the FAI study is the need to obtain pre-fire photographs of the Lahaina Hongwanji campus and buildings. With the exception of the former two-story school building on the campus, there are no architectural plans for the other structures lost in the fire. Recreating the historic character of the campus is a requirement for Federal funding. In this regard, the Committee is asking our Wailuku Hongwanji Sangha for any photographs you may have of Lahaina Hongwanji. The photographs will be useful in supporting FAI Architect's work to in the masterplan process.

If you do have photographs of any Lahaina Hongwanji campus building, may we ask that to provide a copy to the Wailuku Hongwanji Temple office. If your photos are in a digital format, they may be emailed to: WHM@wailukuhongwanji.org.
